Dive In, Breathe Out

Join us for a visit to Journey World—Girl Scouts of Greater Chicago and Northwest Indiana’s unique programming space designed to inspire the next generation of civic and community leaders. This center for leadership and innovation challenges young people to think creatively about commerce, entrepreneurship, science, math, and the environment, then take action to make the world a better place.

Girls will discover the importance of the water cycle and investigate how the quality of air affects the quality of water. Working in research teams, you will build your own water purification system to help resolve pollution. In a scientist summit, the research teams will present their approach to the resolution and your plan to put this into action.
